THE TURF.

Pony and galloping racing will be the attraction at Rosehill this afternoon, and an interesting programme of seven events should provide good sport.

The track is reported to be in splendid order, and the general arrangements to be in the customary standard.

The transit arrangements include a tram to the racecourse, and a bus which on ordinary service to Botany will also be available.

The first race is timed for 1.30 p.m., while the results may be anticipated as under—Madden Handicap, Sobol, The Gamester, Miss Joey, Fourteen-handicap, White Wings, Clydesdale, and Goldie Hop.

Sir John Bradfield's horses ran six furlongs in 1m 56s, which was one and a half seconds faster than the time put up by Drummond, Royal Mail, and Sweet Mail, and Danvers, while a mile in 1m 48s went down to Merrimax and Moree, and a mile in 1m 52s to the trotter, Charlie Crozier.

As far as the members of Sobol were out doing easy work, while First Principles ran a short course, while Lady Denman left a mile behind her in 1m 21s.

Sir John Bradfield's horses ran six furlongs in 1m 56s, which was one and a half seconds slower than the time put up by Drummond, Royal Mail, and Sweet Mail, and Danvers.

Alfred did a working gallop, as did Ulva, while a mile in 1m 48s went down to Fortune, while a mile in 1m 48s went down to Merrimax and Moree, and a mile in 1m 52s to the trotter, Charlie Crozier.

As far as the members of Sobol were out doing easy work, while First Principles ran a short course, while Lady Denman left a mile behind her in 1m 21s.

Sir John Bradfield's horses ran six furlongs in 1m 56s, which was one and a half seconds slower than the time put up by Drummond, Royal Mail, and Sweet Mail, and Danvers.

Alfred did a working gallop, as did Ulva, and Danvers ran six furlongs in 1m 56s, while Alfred executed a strong round, and Athletic sprang a pace.

Sheriff Muir, with neck and chest swatters on, patrolled the tan for a couple of turns on the main track in 1m 56s, and Portrak went a mile behind in 1m 52s, and Portrak went at half-paces.

St. Spass and Secret Service did a mile in 1m 56s, and Danvers did a mile in 1m 52s.

Tarantus did a working gallop, and Danvers ran six furlongs in 1m 56s, while Alfred executed a strong round, and Athletic sprang a pace.

This edition takes a very gloomy view of the future, for the game has not the same reasons, however, that have created the lugubrious outlook prevailing amongst pessimists in our midst, but on account of the fact that we have been so long in the doldrums, that has been the cause of the pessimism.

It has been the same in such a plight. County cricket as we know it for the last forty years or more will not be able to stand up to the other arrangements, contingent on the approval of some other body or bodies.

They represent the hulk: the matter will shortly be referred to again.

Your love for your children naturally makes you anxious to obtain for them the best strength-maker that money can buy.

Every mother who loves her children ought to know the real value of SCOTT'S Emulsion: for the better parents realize the necessity for keeping their children nourished and strengthened by SCOTT'S Emulsion, the more little lives will be saved, and the more homes will be made happier and brighter by the laughter and play of healthy children.

SCOTT'S Emulsion offers the surest and safest means by which the mother can build up and strengthen her little ones. A course of SCOTT'S fortifies the lungs, strengthens the bones, aids teething and promotes the health and well-being of any child. It converts weakly children into strong, robust boys and girls and is particularly valuable in cases of coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup, rickets, wasting and general debility.

Prematurely born or weakly infants need a little SCOTT'S Emulsion every day.

Bottle-fed babies, so often suffering from fat starvation, grow healthier and stronger in every way, if given SCOTT'S three times a day.

Children with weak throats or chests, and who are subject to coughs, colds or chills, should regularly continue SCOTT'S Emulsion during the winter months.

Growing boys and girls, especially those who have to bear the double burden of growing and learning, need regular courses of SCOTT'S Emulsion to enable them to stand the heavy strain and to resist school epidemics.

Children, of all ages, recovering from illness—particularly after measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, bronchitis and all ailments which leave dangerous after-effects—need SCOTT'S Emulsion until health is restored.

WHY ONLY SCOTT'S?

The world's finest cod liver oil alone is used for SCOTT'S Emulsion.

Of this expensive and valuable oil it contains 44%—nearly twice as much as many imitations, and at least one-third as much again as the best malt and oil.

Judged by the standard of results, it excels all others—bringing health and strength when cheaper preparations fail.

If by reason of economy you accept a cheap cod liver oil preparation—You risk the health of your child. Insist on genuine

A STORY OF THE GREAT ARMADA.

BY MORICE GERARD.

"I am all in the favour of the first," Jose put to his friend Garcia, "and I believe the thing of the course is an attack on Plymouth would mean three or four days' delay, under the most favourable circumstances, while we had to wait to get clear of weeks if the weather was unpropitious.

"I have come here purposely, Captain Jose, to urge you to lay before the Duke of Medina Sidonia the course you propose to take. I have studied the matter most carefully on the spot. I went to Plymouth entirely by myself, and I am satisfied that I am convinced that the pathway of success lies through the capture of the western port, and the destruction of Howard's ships. This matter has been in my mind all the time English Admiral, Sir Francis Drake—probably in this matter only." Garcia spoke with a smile, "but, you see, it is only the name of Drake was like vinegar to his tongue."

"We are hardly likely to take our plan of campaign from Drake," Jose protested.

"And yet we might do worse, for he is a born leader of men, and if his counsels had prevailed the issue would be more doubtful than ever."

"I am afraid I do not understand you."

"Drake has been urging throughout that the Armada should never have been allowed to sail by its original route, and to return to the Queen and her Ministers that an English fleet should strike while the Spanish ships were at anchor. These were distributed then in the various bays, were scattered, and could be dealt with one after another. Elizabeth would have time to collect her forces, and to find that while her ships were in the Bay of Biscay, or even further away still, the Armada could be easily taken in and destroyed on the English shores without let or hindrance. It is because of her fear that Drake might act without her permission that she has kept him stored in prison, and I am told that I know for a fact that none of the ships under Lord Howard's command have a week's supply of powder and shot if an action was in progress."

Jose looked at Garcia with surprise and a certain amount of admiration. He did not know so much intimate things, such as no enemy ought ever to have been able to find out.

Garcia went on, after a short pause: "What Drake proposed to do at Cadiz I suggest most emphatically ought to be our course of action. We must strike while the iron is hot, and at the present time in the western port just outside the harbour 'a hundred and twenty ships, ranging from the Triumph, the Monarca, the Santisima Trinidad, and the hundred to a thousand tons burthen, down to pinasses, like the Admira and the Merlin, of ten tons each.' These ships are manned by eleven thousand men, sailors, gunners, and soldiers."

"A formidable fleet," Ugo commented, "for the mother can build up and strengthen her little ones. "I am afraid that the English ships can sail three turions to one, faster than the Spanish galleons and gallaeuses; they can manoeuvre so as to secure every capital of wind and water, and if we are to have success we have watched them daily come in and out of Plymouth harbour, and seen the extraordinary skill with which these vessels are handled, and sheer off again before the Spanish gunners are even ready to respond. The dice are loaded in their favour, and they are a single battalion of infantry, or a squadron of horse soldiers at Dover; they are far less formidable in the Hamoaze than they are in the waters of the English Channel."

"The Duke has come out to fight and to win; these ships have to be destroyed before England can be invaded. There is no room for a single battalion of infantry, or a squadron of horse soldiers at Dover; they are far less formidable in the Hamoaze than they are in the waters of the English Channel."

Alternatives for Easter Wear

Peapes' High-class Ready-to-wear Suits

There are men wearing Peapes' Ready-to-wear Suits to-day who some years ago would not have even considered anything unless tailored to their order.

The reason lies in the betterment of the ready-to-wear garment. There has been an evolution in style, in workmanship and in the resultant fit.

The House of Peapes is producing ready-to-wear suits that RESEMBLE Tailoring, and emulate its individual character. One notable production, commended specially for Easter and Winter wear, is a 3-piece S.B. SAC SUIT, of neat, dark grey Pinhead mixture, or small subdued check.

It has seam at back, no vent, soft roll lapels, two or three buttons, and rounded fronts. Four pockets to vest, side and hip pockets to trousers, cuff or plain bottoms. A distinctive suit, and of good quality.

55/- and 63/-

We have also several other designs in smart suits at prices from £2/2/- to £2/10/-, that are much better than the ordinary in style and workmanship.

Patterns on request. Please state chest, waist, and inside leg measurements when ordering.

Peapes' Styles in Economic Tailoring

Men who wish to have their Easter suits made to measure are reminded that it will be necessary to place orders without delay.

The popularity of Peapes' Economic Tailoring increases day by day.

The influence of the war on cost of materials has been counteracted by contracts placed early and by the installation of a new workroom on our premises. Modern equipment enables us to incorporate the admirable hand-finished effect, not usually associated with moderately-priced tailoring.

In the House of Peapes you will find a COMPLETE RANGE OF new and exclusive materials—your suit will be shaped by an expert cutter—and made under personal supervision on the premises.

£3/3/- to £4/4/-

We cannot too strongly commend early ordering of suits for 1915 Winter Season. British mills are being commanded by the military authorities, and it is purely a matter of conjecture as to future supplies.

Patterns, with self-measurement form, on request.

LAW REPORT.

BANCA COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Fing and a jury of four.)
ACTION FOR LIBEL.
Boyers v. Theatre, Ltd.
Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Studd, instructed by Mr. W. Hand, appeared for the defendant, to investigate for and effect the sale of the goodwill, furniture, and leasehold property known as Waratah Chambers, situated at 178 Pitt Street, Sydney, against Charles Nader Barter against "Theatre, Ltd.", claiming £1000 damages for an alleged libel in the "Western Mail". Defendant pleaded not guilty. The particulars of the plaintiff's case have already appeared. When the hearing was adjourned, Mr. Justice Fing said that the defendant agents, he agreed to purchase the goodwill, and furniture of the plaintiff for £200.

On signing the agreement he had given the defendant permission to make inquiries with regard to the property, to view it, and to inspect it, and the property consisted of leasehold premises belonging to the defendant, and that it was let to certain persons that the lessees were about four years whose respective leases had about four years to run, that the total expense in connection with the lease was £250 a year, and the net income was £250. Relying on the representations contained in the advertisement, he agreed to pay £200 a year, and that the tenant were all secured on lease, and relying on the representations of defendant agents, he agreed to purchase the goodwill, and furniture of the plaintiff for £200.

Mr. Fing said that the words complained of were not capable of the innuendos charged in the plaintiff's declaration.

Defendant denied that he was German, the word "German" being used in the plaintiff's declaration.

Defendant denied that the words "not guilty" in the plaintiff's case have already appeared. When the hearing was adjourned, Mr. Justice Fing said that the defendant agents, he agreed to purchase the goodwill, and furniture of the plaintiff for £200.

AN INCREASE FORECASTED.

The January number of the "Bulletin of Agricultural and Commodity Statistics," issued by the International Bureau of Agriculture, the secretary of the Clydesdale Horse Society of Great Britain and Ireland, is the editor of that journal, his opinion "that the Australians have satisfactorily solved some what difficult foundation problem" is worth noting. United action on the part of the producers of registered Clydesdale and other established breeds is highly necessary to establish the use of inferior sires.

The opportunity of doing something in this direction should not be passed over. A small but strong society should be the outcome of the meeting which will be held at the Agricultural Research rooms at the Show Grounds on the second day of the show. Encouraging support is being accorded the movement by local breeders, whilst the head of the Government Clydesdale stud, the Chief Inspector of Stock, has promised his co-operation.

MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

The Minister for Lands and Agriculture has noted some remarks in the "Sydney Morning Herald" about the department not having been able to get the best price for its meat and cheese. He has made it clear to the price that will be charged. Mr. Ashford states that he has arranged that all the farmers who have sold their meat and cheese to the department will receive 10 per cent. more.

THE G.P.O.

DEPARTMENTS CROWDED OUT

NEW ARRANGEMENTS.

Improvements are to be carried out in the Sydney G.P.O.

The main branch will be transferred in about a month to the Parcels Post-office in Castlereagh-street, and this will provide more room for the public doing business at the G.P.O. A branch counter will be provided in the front room leading into Pitt-street, and most of the business that the public want to do will be possible at this counter. Near the four walls of the office will be desks for reference purposes and for writing letters to the G.P.O.

In answer to the questions contained in the letter of March 4, relative to the report of a speech supposed to have been made by the Premier at the Harbour Trust picnic, Mr. Holmes directed that the speech was not made, and that the present reports that the phrase "China is crying out that the inevitable has happened, and Japan is being unbearable pressure on Peking."

The mind of the Powers being for Europe, Japan could not have had opportunity for her to come to terms with China. To declare the cynics and sceptics of Internationalism, and no declare the Chinese.

Likely, however, is the theory that the present negotiations on China at this time is but a clever engineering dodge on the part of the Chinese to bring Britain into the war.

It is expected that this will give the political parties a great deal of trouble.

The Chinese have been given a vibrant exception to the Government's policy.

It was due to small measures to this hated policy that the late Director of the Political Affairs Bureau in the Tokyo Foreign Office was assassinated, and the Chinese overthrew the government of Yuan Shih-kai.

The nation's policy in China has been abandoned during the present regime, and one of the most persistent charges brought against the present Foreign Minister is that his friend Sir Edward Swinburne will never allow him to live in peace in Japan, because he does her in China.

This is, of course, but another way of confessing a conflict of interest between Britain and Japan in China, and that Japan does not intend to take a second place.

It is clear from the vernacular press of Japan that ever since the taking of Tsing-tau the Japanese opportunity of occupying the area under their jurisdiction, but of the metropolis as a whole, and further, that he was successful in his efforts to have more aggressive than ever in its utilitarian interests in the Republic.

The Government must be given the credit for a time having firmly resisted that Alderman Jones Oh, he's referring to the negligence of the Chinese in the Cabinet, he did not call him in the G.P.O.

As the Chinese policy was to hold a a motion for a change in the system.

A motion referred to the health committee was carried.

MR. HOLMAN HITS HARD.

LETTER TO COUNCIL.

Improvements are to be carried out in the Sydney G.P.O.

Already the result of the campaign of the citizens and movements for the shambles and movements for the which the dislodgment of Germany has and the absorbing topic of the Japan's new relation to her old nation.

No sooner had Japan lifted her martial over the German colony at Tsing-tau, when the earth began to tremble, at last, and the fact is that the outcome of the conflict would affect more than Germany.

Now, the explosion of the Taku is the accomplishment, China is crying out that the inevitable has happened, and Japan is being unbearable pressure on Peking.

THE FALL OF PRZEMYSŁ.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS.

GERMAN CLAIM.

MEMEL RETAKEN.

Przemysł has surrendered to the Russians after a long siege.

Since September the garrison dwindled from 80,000 to 25,000, and at the finish disease was rampant and food scarce.

Final efforts to break through to the relief of the fortress were made by the Austro-German forces in the Carpathians, but were repulsed with heavy losses.

The Austrians state that the fall of Przemysł does not affect the general situation.

The Germans officially announce that the Russians have been driven out of Memel (East Prussia).

On the western front the Germans suffered two serious reverses near Bagatelle, in the Argonne.

EAST PRUSSIA.

MEMEL RECAPTURED.

AMSTERDAM, March 22.—A German official report states that the Russians were expelled from Memel after a terrible street fighting.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

AMSTERDAM, March 23.—A communiqué states: We have advanced from Tauronog (north-east of Tisza), and occupied Lukzunkir (just over the East Prussian frontier), capturing prisoners and engineering stores.

WESTERN FRONT.

FRENCH SUCCESS.

SERIOUS GERMAN REVERSSES.

PARIS, March 22.—A communiqué states: The Germans have had two serious reverses near Bagatelle (in the Argonne). Two French companies stormed a trench after blowing up three mines. Later, the Germans exploded two mines 500 metres away and bombarded our trenches.

The Germans, in close formation, attacked our positions at Rossoszakow, Orawitz, and Kozinkowka, but we repulsed them with heavy loss.

RED CROSS IGNORED.

GERMANS SHELL HOSPITAL.

It is officially stated that owing to defeat at La Boisselle between Bapaume and Albert, the Germans bombarded the hospital at Albert, despite the fact that the Red Cross flag was flying. Five old men were killed and several wounded.

THE MARNE BATTLE.

CAUSE OF GERMAN RETREAT.

The second instalment of the French war review attributes the precipitate retreat of the enemy from the Marne to the Germans bringing several army corps northward to face the French left, permitting the British to attack the German right. These other armies, on the right French centre, detached westward on the enemy's flank, west of the Argonne, and compelled the withdrawal of the mass of Germans, also involving their left.

During a seven days' battle two millions of men were engaged. The French armies were interlocked closely with each other, and from the moment they moved forward never again fell back.

GERMANY'S FOOD.

TROOPS PLANT WHEAT.

AMSTERDAM, March 23.—German troops at Nieden, aided by civilian labour, planted 75,000 acres of wheat and potatoes. Similar extensive cultivation is proceeding in other parts of the country in German occupation.

GERMAN NAVAL LOSSES.

ALREADY MADE GOOD.

AMSTERDAM, March 23.—During the duration of the naval operations in the Baltic-Herring Herr Pindler, reporter for the Naval Committee, declared that Germany's naval losses had already been made good.

THE FAR EAST.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

MIKADO'S TROOPS LANDED.

PEKIN, March 23.—A thousand Japanese troops have arrived at Tsingtao, and 3,000 at Mukden and Dairen.

The Japanese are erecting extensive barracks at Mukden and Dairen.

The conference with China has progressed, and four out of seven of the demands relating to Manchuria have been complied with.

PRZEMYSŁ.

THE SIEGE ENDED.

GARRISON CAPITULATES.

FAMINE AND DISEASE.

PETROGRAD, March 23.—There was great rejoicing in the Russian capital, at the news of Przemysł's surrender, and cheering crowds filled the streets.

The Czar attended a thanksgiving service at the headquarters of the Grand Duke Nicholas, where the "Te Deum" was sung.

Prisoners state that the food supply in Przemysł was completely exhausted, and the defenders were practically without ammunition.

Prior to the capitulation the Russians occupied the village of Krasnitsche, on the western front, and drove the garrison to the line of fortifications on the whole circumference of the fortress.

Over half the garrison in Przemysł took part in a sortie on down on Thursday last, which was preceded by a tremendous artillery attack, in which twenty thousand shells were thrown daily.

The Russians allowed the garrison to approach within a short distance of their trenches. Then guns were brought to bear. The 23rd Hussar division, consisting of four regiments, was wiped out, and six thousand prisoners were taken.

The Russians throughout the siege were determined not to sacrifice their lives. Their casualties latterly only averaged ten daily.

The garrison is estimated to have numbered 80,000 in September. When the fortress surrendered it was 25,000.

The Austrians state that the fall of Przemysł does not affect the general situation.

The above map shows the strategic importance attaching to Przemysł by reason of the railways converging there. In addition to the lines indicated, however, there is one running westward to Dyloff, and another south-westward to a place called Bircza, which is a few miles south of Dubiecko.

She is conferred upon local authorities which are administrative bodies subject to appeals to another administrative body, with a further appeal on points of law to the High Court of Justice. It is plain that the whole jurisdiction was wide and generalised so that to discuss the function of an administrative body entrusted with quasi-judicial powers. On the other hand, no instance has been found in which it has been used by a legislature of the British Dominions to create a Court. In my judgment the function of the Interstate Commission under the Constitution was, and is, to decide the question of the constitutionality of a power of adjudication intended, under section 101, as an exercise which the High Court could not capitate or frustrate, except in abeyance, for some controlling context. It remains to be seen whether the context given to the powers vested in the Commission by section 101 was such power of determining questions of fact as might be necessary for the performance of their executive or administrative functions. It is clear that the power of adjudication on questions of fact was also given to the Interstate Commission by sections 102 and 103 of the Constitution, and that the power of determining questions of fact given to the Commission by section 101 was such power of determining questions of fact as might be necessary for the performance of their executive or administrative functions.

His Honor was in agreement with the Chief Justice in thinking that part five of the Constitution Act purported to make the Commission a Court, and that its acceptance of the term, with many powers, such as ordinarily belonged to a Court, in the Constitution, did not affect the jurisdiction of the Commission, but for all the purposes limited by section 101 of the Constitution which purports to constitute a Court, was controlled by the context—that is to say, by any other provisions of the Constitution.

MR. JUSTICE RICH.

Mr. Justice Rich could see no reason why the powers of adjudication and administration conferred by Parliament on the Interstate Commission should be wider in scope than the power conferred on the Executive by section 101. Indeed one could expect that the Commission would be doing something more than what it was doing if it had been constituted as a Court.

Colonel Wallack has expressed his warm approval of the scheme, and would like to see the club established as soon as possible.

Dr. P. M. O'Brien, Professor Wilson, Mr. J. O. Fairfax, and other well-known men and women are giving the movement warm support.

A public meeting will be held in the vestibule of the Town Hall on Tuesday, March 30, at 4.15 p.m., to give effect to the proposal, and Colonel Wallack, C.H., District Commandant, will preside.

Many a woman fair-complexioned, and with a mother's heart, has been seen to make full start on to the city on her way to fill the ranks of the Empire had she known that there was a soldiers' club to welcome them in Sydney. During the past week, however, many more have come to the meetings, and are anxious to join the Australian Expeditionary Forces. Neither of them had any military experience, but they were told that the "legitimation" of St. John's when the permanent establishment was made which brought the regimental band to the city, and the arrival of Dr. O'Brien was rated to the rank of Monsignor. His comrade had been to the Mounted Police, and was accordingly passed to the Light Horse.

In Great Britain men occupying positions in factories where military stores are manufactured, or in arsenals and naval ship-building yards, are entitled to a weekly leave of 10 days, and the duration of the leave is to be determined by the sole judgment of the Parliament.

The terms of expropriation must be just. The power of expropriation was never questioned by Mr. Wallack, and the Inspector-General of Factories said that there was no objection to the Wheat Acquisition Act of New South Wales, and that the Wheat Acquisition Act is ultra vires of the State, and an infringement against section 92 of the Constitution.

The Commonwealth Parliament, in its judgment, held that the Wheat Acquisition Act was unconstitutional, and that the wheat should be unclaimed.

MR. JUSTICE ISAACS.

Mr. Justice Isaacs said questions of vast importance presented themselves for consideration. The first arose out of the Interstate Commission Act, under which the injunction was issued by the Federal Government, and that the fundamental principle of the separation of powers, and the property rights of every person in the wheat at the date of publication shall be taken to be controlled by the provisions of the Act relating to compensation, to which I need not refer.

The Act, he said, was enacted to regulate the exercise of the power of expropriation of private property, which is generally, and I think rightly, referred to as a constitutional limitation. The strict construction of the Constitution, in view of the careful definitions, very explicit and unmistakable words to undo the effect of the dominant principle of the Commonwealth, which is that the power of expropriation must be exercised in the interest of the Commonwealth, and not in the interest of the State, and that the property rights of every person in the wheat at the date of publication shall be taken to be controlled by the provisions of the Act relating to compensation, to which I need not refer.

The second question was whether the power of expropriation must be exercised in the interest of the Commonwealth, and not in the interest of the State, and that the property rights of every person in the wheat at the date of publication shall be taken to be controlled by the provisions of the Act relating to compensation, to which I need not refer.

Mr. Justice Isaacs said that the Wheat Acquisition Act, which was passed on December 11, 1914, enacts by section 5 that the Governor-in-Chief may make regulations for the exercise of the power of expropriation, and that the exercise of that power must be in accordance with the principles of the Constitution.

GARDEN SUBURBS.

HOUSING REFORM INQUIRY.

PEOPLES' HOMES.

The Victorian Royal Commission on Housing, which is visiting Sydney, began the taking of evidence at Parliament House yesterday, Mr. R. H. Solly, M.L.A., being in the chair. John Sulman, president of the Town Planning Association of New South Wales, said every effort should be made to get the workers out into the suburbs, and this involved the crucial question of cheap and quick transit. One solution that had been suggested was for the Government or a municipality to purchase large blocks of un-developed suburban land at agricultural values, provide the rapid transit, and out of the profits on re-sale reduce the cost to a minimum. Another model town could be made at Letchworth, with transfer both factors and workers into the country and form new centres, and he considered this the most promising method of any. Assuming that either suburban or country centre development was undertaken, it was known that the cities like Sydney, as regards housing, the long, narrow type, four or five rooms deep, almost universal in the city, were to blame. Those who could afford to pay a tenth of its up-keep would be unable to do so under present conditions, but for those who could not pay more than 5s or 10s there was no proper provision.

Witnesses said what you could consider the minimum cost of a dwelling, with essential accommodation, electricity, bathroom, and necessary conveniences, was £100, and this was for three children?

Witnesses said £100; but the amount would vary according to needs.

Mr. D. J. G. Scott, chairman of the House Rebuilding Committee, explained how the recompensation schemes had come to be carried out. Splendid work had been done by the Council in the rebuilding of the city, and he was glad to say that because the council had fallen into disfavour lately, he believed that the business centre was being planned by the business centre. An eminent town-planner who had recently visited Sydney had said that even the sturdy old slums were being replaced by modern flats in Berlin. The great thing was to have separate houses of the bungalow type if possible, but the high prices of land in the city itself.

In spite of the war, there were very many people who could not get houses in Sydney, and the houses could not be built nearer than 25ft to the road. The employment was not sufficient, and clerks and workers, whom there were about 100 men, had never received any encouragement from the Sydney Public Institutions. The architect who had offered him whatever help he required, had accepted it. In regard to the plan, he said he had had a great deal of the fadette's. The practical side wanted watching, and the theoretical side wanted planning. If a fifth area were taken up, no doubt it would be a success, but there must be no extravagance of expenditure. The present system of trifling among the people was a much better position than the clerk and warehouseman. He experienced that a house was very much better cared-for by a man who owned it outright than by a man who had to keep it in trust.

Witnesses answered that the Daceyville leaseholders had been a great success, the occupiers having made a profit in keeping them and their rents.

Richard Stanton, real estate agent, detailed the history of the Haymarket and Haymarket Suburb, built up by the State on the flat land in its rough state 12 years ago, at £110 per acre. He had later had to pay £250 and up to £270 per acre for compensation.

He said the total cost was 1000 houses on 1000 acres.

The architect had been told that a house was very much better cared-for by a man who owned it outright than by a man who had to keep it in trust.
